Message from the Principal

Kathmandu College of Management (KCM) has, in the last three decades, carved out a niche by redefining management education in Nepal and consistently striving for excellence.

This endeavor obviously involved integrating the fields of business and technology through introduction of the BBIS program. This tech-oriented thrust has today emerged as IT-focused offerings that prepare students for a fast-evolving digital world.

The four-year courses at KCM will enable you to challenge perspectives, think critically and develop into leaders ready to take on the future. KCM will provide that crucial balance of academic rigor and real-world exposure.
As you begin this important chapter, we invite you to be part of a community that empowers you to Explore, Evolve, and Excel.

Bishnu Raj Adhikari
Principal

Life beyond the classroom

The KCM Student Council is the student-led force behind everything that makes college feel like more than just lectures. Representing every student's voice, the council bridges the gap between the classroom and real life organizing events, driving initiatives, and building the kind of memories that last well beyond graduation. Four specialized clubs, one shared mission: to make your time at KCM genuinely unforgettable.

At its core, the KCM Student Council operates on the belief that a student's time in college should be transformative in every sense. Academic growth matters, but so does personal development, cultural engagement, professional readiness, and social responsibility. The council takes ownership of all of this, working tirelessly behind the scenes and in front of crowds to ensure that every student at KCM has access to an enriching, well-rounded experience throughout their time here.
